Code of conduct for research

The purpose of this code is to ensure that the research carried out in the Academy is not only beneficial to the society but also conducted in a manner worthy of an enlightened society. This shall be achieved by observing the following rules:

- i. All research activities shall be aimed at benefitting the mankind by improving the health or the quality of living. Basic sciences that aim at understanding the fundamental workings of nature shall also be deemed to be a benefit to the mankind as such knowledge alone can provide the bridge for a giant leap in science.
- ii. The conduct of research shall not endanger or affect the life of the fellow human being. All projects involving human subjects shall ensure that they are conducted in compliance with the Declaration of Helsinki. Approval of the Central Ethics Committee shall be sought prior to the initiation of such research project.
- iii. Humane practices shall be employed for research using animals. All projects involving animals shall seek approval of the Institutional Animal Ethics Committee prior to the initiation of the research project.
- iv. The conduct of research should not damage the environment in any form. Biological and chemical waste shall be disposed in the appropriate form notified by the Academy from time to time.
- v. Utmost probity shall be exercised in ensuring that the data included in academic documents such as publication, thesis, dissertation, and report is original and not fabricated or plagiarized in any manner. Plagiarism shall be punishable as per the UGC regulation on Academic Integrity. The Academy shall provide appropriate software/tools to check for plagiarism in academic documents. A competent person in the Academy library shall be authorized to issue the 'No Plagiarism Certificate'. Criteria for the determination of plagiarism shall be according to the UGC regulation on Academic Integrity.
